DECLARE HEBERT RECEDES

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19.—A personal conference between Ex-Governor John Lind, special envoy from President Wilson, and President Huerta is believed to have made the Mexican executive see the wisdom of moderating his attitude toward the United States.

A "diplomatic back-door" on the part of President Huerta is the way the latest developments in the crisis is officially described.

The conference between Ex-Governor Lind and President Huerta lasted through much of the night. The object in the mind of the American envoy was to prevent the strain in international relations resulting from the trouble in Mexico.

The result of the conference was kept secret, so far as any authorized statement is concerned. No details of it could be obtained at the National Palace, as American Embassy was equally mute.

But it became known from sources regarded as reliable, that the meeting between Mr. Lind and President Huerta was cordial and that the former ultimatum, so-called, was believed by Mr. Lind to be without sanction of President Huerta.

Attributed to Urrutia.

This ultimatum, report of which came late the night before, was attributed to Dr. Aureliano Urrutia, Minister of the Interior. He was reported to have announced that the United States would be given until midnight to recognize the Huerta administration. Failing this, diplomatic relations would be severed.

Charge of Affairs O'Connell, chief of the American Embassy called upon Foreign Minister Gamboa, when the reported ultimatum became known.

Mr. Gamboa gave out the following: "Minister of the Interior Urrutia has made the statement attributing to the Minister of Foreign Affairs the only person responsible for any statement of business concerning his department."

Charge O'Connell immediately called his State Department.

As far as the Land-Huerta conference went, no claim was made that President Huerta officially repudiated the ultimatum. But the statement of Minister Gamboa, in charge O'Connell was regarded as an official disavowal.

MANCURE GRL QUARREL

The body of Mrs. Marie Remourte La Maire—the maidservant who was found dead on a couch in her room at Newwood—will be kept in a receiving tomb until Professor William Whitely of the Harvard Medical School determines by what poison she died.

This was announced today, after Medical Examiner Pratt had given Undertaker Elloughly orders not to enter the body for the present.

Chief of Police Lavery also made a statement that he has evidence that a man visited Mrs. La Maire in her room Tuesday evening—the day she was found dead—and quarreled with her.

This man is believed to have been the same whose automobile Mrs. La Maire entered Wednesday afternoon in Newwood square—the last time she was seen alive.

Chief Lavery adopted the theory the woman was drugged and then strangled by a man who had entered her room in the New Wood.

Boston Woman Dies

on Train in West

Word was received in Boston this afternoon that Mrs. May Bacharach, three years old wife of Israel Bacharach, superintendent of the Boston City Club, died by being pushed by food or water on a train on route from St. Louis to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Bacharach, accompanied by their nine-year-old son, departed for Boston August 2 for a vacation.

The first word to Mr. Louis, where Mr. Bacharach attended the annual convention of the United States Savings Bank, was that Mrs. Bacharach had died.

Mr. Bacharach, the wife of Mr. Bacharach, died at the time of Mrs. Bacharach's death they were on their way to Chicago via the Boston & Albany.

As soon as the train arrived in Chicago the death of Mrs. Bacharach was reported to the authorities and Coroner Hoffman started an investigation.

Boston Merchants Lose Rate Case

Interstate Board Decides Against Petition of Chamber of Commerce.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—In an opinion handed down today the Interstate Commerce Commission denies the petition of the Boston Chamber of Commerce for an adjustment of rates from the Atlantic seaboard to points in Colorado via the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad. The though rates are more than the combination rates via Chicago, but the Commission fails to find that they have worked any hardship upon the shipper.

The commission allowed the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Boston & Albany Railroad to charge less for transportation of prepared steel of anthracite coal from mines in the anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania to New-Haven, New York, Upper Falls and Boston than for transportation of iron ore.

The new rate places dealers in these places on a parity with those in Atlanta and Newton Lower Falls.

Rough Sea Forces Plymouth Boat Back

A northeast wind and choppy sea today made it impossible for the steamer Betty Allen to ride in safety outside Boston Light to Plymouth and she had to return to her berth at Rowe's wharf.

The liner Laconia was shunted around outside Boston Light when she stopped to allow the pilot to leave and her nose was pointed in the direction of Boston. This gave rise to the rumor that the Laconia was returning to Boston.

Quincy Tax Goes to $23.70 Record

Quincy's tax rate for 1913 is $23.70, an increase of $1.70 over last year. This is the high water mark in the tax rate of the city. The increase is due, it is said, to an increase of $9,324.25 in municipal expenses, a decrease of $63,922 in personal estate, and a decrease in bank estate of $188,250. The increase in real estate totals $1,591,500.

Diggs Testifies in "Slavery" Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Maurice Diggs, defendant in the white slavery case brought by the government, took the stand in his own defense shortly after court was reconvened today for the first time since last Friday. Diggs looked straight ahead as he answered questions put by Attorney DeLoach, for the defense. To speak his answers in a loud firm voice.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the suffrage leader, who is back from Europe, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Garrett Hay, chairman of the Woman's Suffrage party, is expected to open a suffrage training school, which will open Sept. 15.

FUGITIVE DEFIES CAPTORS TO REEF HIM IN PRISON

COATCOOK, P. Q., Aug. 19.—The police here at noon today announced that they have Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford W. K. K. Thaw, who escaped from Mattawan Sunday, under arrest.

They have three men in custody. One, they say, has admitted that he is Thaw—both to them and to Deputy Sheriff B. H. Keefe of Colebrook, N. H., who brought about the man's arrest.

Held as Fugitive From Justice

The other two men have refused to give their names. The man held as Thaw is charged with being a fugitive from justice and will probably be sent to jail at Sherbrooke, to be kept in New York officers arrive.

The police have not searched him, and so were unable to say whether "Thaw" has a through ticket to Europe for some point in the United States. If he has no such ticket, he will probably be sent back to the United States. If he has a ticket, like Jack Johnson, he must be permitted to embark for Europe.

Arrest Officially Reported.

Here is the official police announcement of the capture:

Harry K. Thaw was arrested at Hallowell, Me., by Constable Woulton as a charge ordered by the constable with the advice and on information of R. H. Kelley, deputy sheriff of Colebrook, N. H. Kelley has been sent of Thaw's arrest to the Mattawan station by Deputy Sheriff Kelley.

Word has been received from the Mattawan authorities to hold the prisoner until further instructions are received from them. Deputy Sheriff Kelley was on a train on his way home to Colebrook, after he had been reading a paper when a stranger came from a few miles down the state—it was in the morning car—and asked for a match.

The deputy sheriff was reading the story of Thaw's escape in the paper, and a big picture of Thaw stared up at the page. He looked up at the stranger and saw the likeness at once.

The stranger noticed his stare and said: "What's the matter? Do you think you know who I am?"

"I could make a pretty good guess," said Kelley.

"Well, who are you, then?" the stranger defiantly demanded.

"I think you are Harry K. Thaw," Kelley said, the stranger looked nervously and then said boldly: "Well, you're right, I am Thaw. But you don't want me to be a fugitive from justice, do you?"

Foss Still Shy of Names; Others Sure

Papers have been received at the office of the Secretary of State today with sufficient certified names to guarantee the placing on the official ballot for the primaries the names of Walter B. Foss and Fred A. B. Foss for Governor. It is understood that Foss papers are coming in this afternoon from the Boston election commission, but it is not known whether there will be enough names upon them to cause the placing of his name on the ballot.

Enough signatures to insure the entire Democratic and Republican tickets have also been filed.

Elsie Burr Gives Up Plan to Be a Nurse

Miss Elsie Burr, daughter of J. Tucker Burr, the banker, declared today she had given up her intention of becoming a nurse.

"I was interested in nursing to the extent of almost deciding to make it a life work," said the wealthy young Vassar Club girl, "but later I decided to confine my work to that direction to study from a lay woman's standpoint. I was, however, deeply interested in the work."

GET AUTO CLEW IN PEEKSKILL

couldn't do anything to me if you wanted to. They have acquired me of murder, and you can't extradite me."

"Where are you bound for?" Kelsey asked.

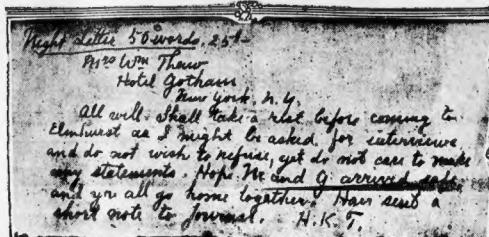

"Canada," the man answered. "Canada, and then across the water."

Kelsey picked up his paper again, and the man who had declared he was back to his seat with the man and come to get. Deputy Sheriff Kelsey got off the train here. They got an automobile, and made a dash for it. Kelsey followed them, but they were gone before he could catch up.

They got an automobile, and made a dash for it. Kelsey followed them, but they were gone before he could catch up.

Kelsey got the direction, and by following along the road, traced the car to Peekskill, where it was driven by Brooks across the line into Canadian waters. The three men he eventually persuaded Brooks to drive back.

CAN THAW BE BROUGHT BACK FROM CANADA?

The moment the news was flashed from Quebec that Harry K. Thaw had been captured there, the first question asked was:

"Can he be extradited from the Dominion?"

Dispatches from Ottawa today said that the fugitive paranoiac is in the same class with Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, so far as Canada goes. He cannot take refuge in the Dominion. But if he enters it with a through ticket to Europe, he cannot be held up or turned back.

Dispatches from Ottawa on Monday, when Thaw's escape was first known, said that every immigration official along the border had been notified to watch for Thaw. Automobiles and trains were to be scrutinized. Any inspector finding Thaw either in an auto or on a train, was ordered to hold him up.

The dispatches added that, in case Thaw should succeed in smuggling himself past the border, but should be caught later, he would be deported back to the United States as an undesirable citizen.

But these first-day opinions from Ottawa on Monday were revised today by the statement that Thaw could not be turned back IF HE CAME PROVIDED WITH THROUGH TRANSPORTATION TO EUROPE, not even if he is legally insane.

Jack Johnson had been convicted on a "white slavery" charge, but was out on bail. He went to Canada. He would have been turned back promptly as an undesirable, but he was carefully provided with through railroad and steamer transportation to France. So the Canadian authorities let him go right along. He couldn't stop, but he was allowed, even compelled, to keep moving until he passed through the country and out at the other side.

The same ruling will apply to Thaw, according to Ottawa dispatches today.

The transportation point raises the question whether those who engineered Thaw's escape from Mattawan arranged for his steamer ticket from Canada.

speed back into Canada with Thaw in it speeding toward Canada. I. H. Fitch of Wilton, Ct., saw Thaw and his companions Sunday evening. Thaw and his companions passed through South Norwalk, Ct., Sunday morning. Thaw and his companions passed through South Norwalk, Ct., Sunday morning. Thaw and his companions passed through South Norwalk, Ct., Sunday morning.

Bradley says he would hide Thaw even in coal cellar. Bradley, 10, 141 Clinton avenue, whose daughter lives in Mrs. William Thaw's house, said that he had not heard from Thaw except through the newspaper. "But he would be welcome here at any time," said Bradley. "I would hide him, if necessary, even if he had to be secreted in the coal cellar."

Rockland steamer in Boston without Thaw's brother. Reporters who reached in the morning steamer from Rockland, Me., today to learn the whereabouts of Thaw's brother, Harry K. Thaw, were disappointed. No word was to be obtained.

MAY TAKE YEARS TO GET FUGITIVE FROM CANADA

If Harry K. Thaw is located in Canada, it may take the New York authorities years to get him back in his country, if they ever do. It took the United States government three years to get back the two men in the Haywood-Greene feud case, and these men were ex-convicts. The extradition of Thaw is a case of "country and friendship" between the United States and Canada. Several years ago Benjamin D. Greaves, a New York contractor, was charged in connection with the work on the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad. Captain Carter was appointed military secretary to General Benjamin D. Greaves. Captain Carter was appointed military secretary to General Benjamin D. Greaves. Captain Carter was appointed military secretary to General Benjamin D. Greaves.

ESCAPE COST THAW $2,000 IN FEES TO AUTO PLOTTERS

NEW YORK, May 19.—Harry Kendall Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, paid $2,000 for the services of four of the conspirators who assisted him to make his escape from the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Mattawan, N. Y., on the morning of Sunday, August 17.

This new detail of the plot to effect his liberation is known today is due to the fact that the fifth man involved in the scheme was "left out in the cold" by his four companions when they decided the proceeds of their Sunday morning's work.

50 Burns Men Trail Fugitive.

The motor car in which Thaw on Sunday morning has been traced from a New York garage to Peekskill. It is said that the car is the property of a well-known New York, who alone has experience in a West Side garage.

Several arrests are expected. Fifty Burns detectives are seeking Thaw and working night and day to unravel the plot that ended in his escape.

The Burns men now in Peekskill declare that an arrest may be expected tonight or earlier.

This is the situation in the Thaw case forty-two hours after the escape from Mattawan.

Thaw is still at large. A warrant has been issued, charging him with conspiracy; another will probably be issued charging him with bribery, to compel extradition.

Former Assistant District Attorney Richard J. Butler is sought by the police as the leader of the plotters. Conspiracy warrants are out for the arrest of him and his alleged confederates, F. Lloyd Thompson, O'Keefe and Flood.

Chief Hornebeck, with three deputies and two Burns men, left Peekskill, N. Y., late last night on a twenty-mile dash by automobile to New York to arrest Thaw.

District Attorney Conger left at 10 o'clock last night for New York City, and Mr. Thaw.

At 10 o'clock last night Sheriff Harkness, with deputies and private detectives, set out for a hunt in Dutchess County. They took along William C. Greaves, proprietor of the Holland Hotel. They were plainly bent on a raid and arrest.

At 10:15 District Attorney Conger and Robert Lowery, a witness of the fight of the Thaw machines, left Peekskill for New York City. They would not say where they were going, but Mr. Conger called from the running car. "Run up late. Thaw is here."

Michigan Plans Fight. Mrs. Mary C. Thaw today has begun consultations with lawyers and agents to learn her son's exact status in the eyes of his law and determine the best means for his protection. Dr. Britton D. Evans, who testified for Thaw at his trial, conferred with her last night.

Thaw "SEEN" IN MANY NEW ENGLAND TOWNS SINCE HIS ESCAPE. Harry K. Thaw, who escaped from Mattawan Sunday morning, has been "seen" all over New England and the East. To be everywhere he has been reported. Thaw would have needed considerable money to make his escape, and a "mug shot" here is the first.

Harry K. Thaw and his companion John F. Thaw, who testified for Thaw at his trial, conferred with her last night.

A New York man revealed Thaw with his companions on a train passing through New York State. Thaw was seen at a hotel in New York City. Thaw was seen at a hotel in New York City. Thaw was seen at a hotel in New York City.

Every Gets Note: "Take My Name Off Signs"

THREAT IS MADE IN "H. K. T." TELEGRAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—I want you to have that name taken off the theatre at once. You realize your mistake.

(Signed) H. K. T.

Such the threatening telegram which was handed to Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, Harry Thaw's wife, yesterday. Her eyes flashed as she read it; of course "that name" meant plainly the electric sign that blazes nightly on the theatre where Mrs. Thaw is dancing.

Wounded by the hint, agitated, Mrs. Thaw's nervousness increased after reading the message.

"Exactly Like Him."

"I cannot doubt that Harry sent that," she said. "It is exactly like him. Never before I received a telegram from him which was not signed like this, with his initials. Probably he sent it by the same messenger who mailed his letter to his mother."

"The words, 'you realize your mistake,' like him. A veiled warning of something worse to come. Or if anybody but Harry Thaw sent this telegram, it means now, he must know Mr. Thaw very well indeed. He knows Harry hates me. 'Why? you ask. I don't know. It can only be another symptom of his insanity.'"

"Merciful heavens! What I went through for him when he was tried for his life! Yet he showed not a spark of gratitude. He did not seem to realize what I had done for him; he took it as a matter of course."

"Why, his very letter to his mother is another proof of his 'big head'—what have the alienists called it—'meg. somnolence.'"

"He writes: 'I might be asked for interviews and do not wish to refuse. Yet do not come to make a statement.' I—I—, the most important person on earth."

"But if Mr. Thaw has any purpose to attack, how could he get into New York without being caught?" asked the AMERICAN reporter.

"Harry is a great make-up artist," Mrs. Thaw answered.

"Ask For Legal Stamps."

FLIES CAUSE OF INFANT DEATHS IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 19.—Infants brought on by stable flies killing little children is no prevalent here that an epidemic is feared, five children now being with the disease, with one death reported in the Board of Health to date.

Dr. Charles V. Chapin, superintendent of the Board of Health, today began a rigorous investigation. There is fear of repetition of the epidemic which cost this city so much three years ago. With the assistance of Eugene V. King, inspector of the board, he is determined

RIORDAN HOME HAPPY, AT LEAST FOR A WHILE

The hapless mother in Boston today is Mrs. James J. Riordan, No. 430 State street, Charlestown. For her five little children, who were taken away from her last week on the charge of being neglected and later found dead in the Charlestown Police Court, after a substantial breakfast at home with the four other children in the family—four that the police didn't get.

It is true their return home is only temporary, for they must appear next

HAPPY are the Riordan children, once more at home, pending their father's appeal to the Superior Court. They have been convicted in the lower court of being neglected children. Their mother, happy at their return, says they will never again be forced by the police to ride in a patrol wagon, as Lieutenant Risger compelled them. Left to right: Frances C. E. Marlow, 14; holding baby Helen, 4; Harry, 8, in rear, and Joseph, 12.

"But I want those society agents to tell my home from now until the case is called. Let them look at the house, and see the children, and if they are not satisfied with the general condition of things, then I will be satisfied to have my children given over to others."
"Nevertheless I shall live only for the little ones."

Vinalhaven Swept by Forest Flames

Campers on island on Maine Coast in Great Danger.

ROCKLAND, Me., Aug. 19.—A destructive forest fire is raging on the east side of the island of Vinalhaven in West Penobscot Bay. It is being fought by brigades of volunteers, most of whom are summer visitors. Women are helping with buckets.

Thousands of dollars worth of timber and has already been consumed. A care-free ranger is said to have started it. Federated Summer camps are in danger. A hotel recently which today gave out a notice to the flames. The attack is baffling. Help is being given by the residents from North Haven Island across the Fox Island thoroughfare. Directly across the narrow channel from where the fire is hottest is the little settlement of Vinalhaven.

Politics All Over the Map

Pure food this fair to be an issue in the coming campaign. Two of three in the Senators who fought food bills during the last session have already given up without a fight and will not be candidates. Others who fought the food bills and are candidates are beginning to believe that there are no serious times.

Edward J. Bailey of Fitchburg, candidate for the General Court, has blithely wagon to a star and declared for pure food. Others are getting on the band wagon.

Right up to the last minute today, Governor Foss kept the machine candidates trembling with suspense and uncertainty. Saturday is said "My bet is in the ring," but qualified that by adding: "I will keep it there till it is no safe for anybody to withdraw his bet."

Then yesterday afternoon even Colonel Benton had decided Governor Foss was a candidate. Secretary George Harlow came out with an explanation of the tricks used to prevent Foss papers from being circulated. These little bits of calumny have been common political gossip for three weeks—but Colonel Benton matched at the straw and tried to convince himself there really was a chance Foss would step out.

The Essex club during Saturday was a scene enough for a social occasion. Everybody there was a candidate, and as the jobs drew like lightning in a thunder storm.

Governor Foss wore the shabby old campaign overcoat that has carried him through all his successful campaigns, and Candidate McElroy objected.

"You ought to dress up, when you come home to your folks this way," Governor Foss started his address at the meeting by saying: "Ladies and gentlemen: Republicans; Fellow Republicans!"

Colonel Benton choked and took a drink of water. Congressman Gardner leaned over and brushed a little dirt off his trousers leg.

"If you don't believe it," added the Governor—"Ask Tom Riley. The most unkindest out of all!"

Colonel Benton began his address thus: "Fellow Republicans—young and old Republicans—warned over Republicans!"

Colonel Benton would doubtless class himself as an American and Honorable Republican.

Governor Foss is to speak this afternoon to the Ward and Towns Men's Republican Club at Nantasket. About that time, Colonel Benton and Congressman Gardner will be running around filing nomination papers.

The Governor said yesterday: "It is possible I may make my platform at the Nantasket meeting." But he had said just before:

"I have taken no interest whatever in the election of any man for Governor for myself. If enough Republicans want me, they'll get out the papers and put me in the line."

Who was that fellow Barker? Congressman Gardner has gone to Washington, and on his return, September 7, with all guns loaded and an extra ammunition train to follow.

And the thing that's worrying some is that even if Governor Foss doesn't get into the Republican primary fight—he runs his constituency.

Nell Brinkley Says

HERE is some lover's glorification, the song of his enchantment, his "Besta Mea Domina," in praise of his sweetheart's hair. I do not even know who wrote it. It was sent to me. Lovers have always longed and yearned over the silk on the heads of the women they loved. Sometimes her hair is short, ebony-dark, tangled in curls, metallic and crisp. Sometimes it is brown and fine and long and sleek.

Science

OF the strangest legends of antiquity is the old Greek story of Sisyphus, the father of the gods, who was condemned to roll a stone up a hill, only to see it roll back down again.

A little boy of four years of age, on his first day at school, was asked to write the word "cat" on his paper.

"Paw," was the answer, and the teacher said: "That's all right, but you must write the word 'cat'."

"SHE braids it in two heavy braids That reach the carpet high. And winds them crosswise, nap to crown. To cross again and then come down, And cross again on high. I watch with joy that never fades; A fortunate man am I."

"She twists it from a silken twist Into a coil instead; Each side rests against her ear; Its weight is on her collar clear. Heavy it seems as lead; A rope thick as her good wrist, She fastens it to her head."

"To styles not blind. She cannot bind, as other women do. That scented mass, that smells of wheat. And lavender and apples sweet. She plies the great combs through. More lovely than all maiden kind. A woman twenty—?"

Scorpions that devour their young: a lesson to two-legged animals.

vid ourselves of the terrible habit of devouring our own kind—at least in a grotesque way—many of the lower animals still practice this kind of struggle for existence, and so do not always continue to do so.

Nature is a great teacher, but she so frequently teaches us what to avoid as what to pursue. And there is a deeper side to her lessons which we do not always perceive.

We shudder as a scorpion eagerly devouring her children, holding two of them in her pincers, and crushing another in her jaws, while a double row of others, lined up in their tracks, crowd before her, ignorant of the fate that awaits them.

The scorpions being afterward forgotten, without having been brought to perfection, the legend arose that Sisyphus was a criminal, calling his own punishment a curse.

However this may be, the story about Sisyphus ought not to be a myth, but a lesson to us, for in fact, they are.

The old mythologist never had any doubt in his mind that the scorpions were a kind of punishment, and that the scorpion was a kind of punishment.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

APPEAL TO THE POLICE.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I kept company with a young man for three years and expected to be married in the Spring. My parents objected to him. He was very jealous and never took me out or gave me anything. Last Summer I became acquainted with a man eight years my senior. He takes me out and says he loves me. My folks like him and I love him very dearly. He wants to marry me. My dear lover threatens me when he says I am going to get married. He writes letters and says I don't answer him. I am very much perplexed.

A JELLYMAN like this is a danger to your peace of mind. You must marry the second man, for he is the one you love, and you must put an end to all obstacles attending from the first man. If your father cannot help you, appeal to the authorities.

ARE YOU SURE? I am a young lady, seventeen years of age and come in contact with a young man two years my senior. I know this man loves me, and his love is reciprocated. When we meet we always are indifferent. Now is what way can we get together to keep company, as I know our parents would not object, and our friends are aware of the facts? ANTOINETTE.

It takes sometimes more than the approval of parents and the knowledge of mutual friends that they do approve, to make a young man love a girl. I want you to have love in my fond eyes for you, but I don't believe this man loves you. You say his letters are indifferent toward you. If he loved you, he wouldn't do that, and you would not have to look for a way to win him.

Discrimination Against Citizens That Are Jews

We find it desirable, as a rule, to forego mentioning the names of minor hotels and boarding houses that reject Jews, because advertising their improper, ILLEGAL and un-American conduct is exactly what they want—SINCE IT CALLS THEM TO THE FAVORABLE ATTENTION OF A CERTAIN MIDDLE CLASS, HALF-SUCCESSFUL, VERY JEALOUS, CHEAP SET OF AMERICAN CITIZENS WHO ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ANTI-JEWISH SENTIMENT.

The customers of this hotel include many of the half-successful middle class, prejudiced, underbred individuals that share the prejudice against the Jewish people, but a beginning must be made somewhere and it would not be a bad idea if the man who writes to us should begin with a lawsuit against this particular hotel which has convicted itself of discrimination that is illegal.

Men of the Jewish race have done at least as much as any other nationality, as much as the adherents of any other religious faith, to increase the prosperity of this nation, to develop its resources to the full.

Members of Legislatures and the citizens generally, expressing themselves through laws, should make discrimination a penal offence if that can be done legally, and in any case an offence subject to heavy financial damages, forfeiting the right to conduct a hotel and obtain a license.

This newspaper has given repeated publicity and repeated rebuke to those that are guilty of race and religious discrimination. Jewish citizens should take up the matter and put an end to it.

When manufacturers, prosecuted and fined, continue to go on with their work of poisoning children in utter defiance of the law, they should be sent to the penitentiary. Unscrupulous dealers, keen for large profits, sell their stuff to the innocent children regardless of the consequences. Such dealers should also be made severely liable.
